What is the requirement to run Traffic Psyche?

Traffic Psyche runs with these requirements:

- Any version of Microsoft Windows operating system.
- Internet connection with any speed.
- Storage size; initially 2.2MB but then it can go up to 10MB depending on the length of usage, since the longer it runs the bigger the size of the log file will be.
- Valid BlogCatalog's account.

What is inside the download package?

The download file is in compressed / zipped format, named TrafficPsyche_v2_0.zip. Unzip the file which will produce another 2 files namely, TrafficPsyche.exe and TrafficPsyche-Manual.pdf (this document). Put the files anywhere in your PC. We recommend you to put it in a new created folder.

Once it is running it will produce 5 more files, which are:

- setup.ini – stores your configurations / settings
- rated.dat – stores the log of your rated pages
- browsed.dat – stores the log of your browsed sites
- cookies.txt – cookies file
- sys.log – stores the transaction logs

How to run Traffic Psyche?

The software runs in a Microsoft Disk Operating System (MSDOS) environment.

To start you can use either one of these two (2) ways:

1. command prompt

- Go to 'Start Menu'
- Choose 'run'
- Type 'cmd'
- In the command prompt, go to the folder where you put TrafficPsyche.exe.
- Execute the file by typing 'TrafficPsyche.exe'

2. Windows direct

- Double clicking on TrafficPsyche.exe

Once it runs, firstly it will ask several configuration questions pertaining to your system settings. In each question you may follow these rules:

- 1) To skip any question, unanswered press <Enter> key

- 2) The existing data of the setting will be shown inside the symbol '[' ']'.
- 3) To delete the old data, key-in symbol '-' followed by <Enter> key
- 4) Some question will give you options to answer.
 - a. For example (Y/N) means you need to press either 'Y' or 'N' or 'Q' which means:
 - i. Y – 'Yes', you agree with the question
 - ii. N – 'No', you do not agree with the question
- 5) You can stop the system at anytime by pressing <Ctrl-C>. (Press <Ctrl> key and letter C)

The questions for setting up your system are:

- 1) Process delay – a pause time taken for each process. The time is measured in second. This is very important since sometime BlogCatalog could not process your activities to fast (ie. Adding friends, visiting pages with your picture embedded). We recommend the best delay would be the minimum of 5 second. The higher the better and it will definitely be seen as more natural to them.

- 3) BlogCatalog's directory – key in as many directories as you wish. Make sure to add one (1) directory at a time. You can have the directory names from BlogCatalog's directory page at <http://www.blogcatalog.com/directory/>. When choosing directories, please do not use the name as displayed on the page, instead use the one shown on the status bar as and when you put your mouse over the selected directory name. For example if you would like to choose directory “Art & Artists”, the status bar will shows <http://www.blogcatalog.com/directory/art>. So that directory's actual name is art.

Another thing, you will also notice a number beside the directory names on that page. That shows how many member pages are there in that particular directory. If the number is too big, you may need to choose the sub directory instead. This is because the bigger the numbers the longer the system will take in order to collect the necessary data. This will cause a long pause when you run the system later. For example directory “Art & Artists” you may consider choosing subdirectory, music-art, photography-art, mixed-media instead.

- 4) Referrer URL – key in any URL that you want yourself to be seen by the website owner when the system surf their sites. They will know this from their tracking system such as traffic report.

- 5) Proxy URL – if you do not want your IP to be seen by your visited pages, you may decide to choose proxy for surfing instead. Or maybe if you have to go through proxy in order to access the Internet, you may use this as well. But Traffic Psyche will only give 30 second timeout. Meaning if it takes more than 30 second to access Internet, the system will fail. So please make sure your selected proxy is a good, fast performance proxy server.

- 6) Shout messages – You can now create as many short messages as you wish for the shout-box. The message will be sent to members shout-box in a randomly basis. If you need to send one similar message to all, just key in only one message.

While surfing over any particular pages, Traffic Psyche will check whether there're any messages that you have sent before and is still shown in the shout-box. Since BlogCatalog will only show the last 5 messages on the shout-box, so until your message is out from that list, you will not be able to send any more shout. This is to prevent Traffic Psyche from being used as a spamming tool.

Enter blogcatalog's directory [music-art,photography-art]:mixed-media
Add more directory (Y/N):n
Enter your referer URL:www.trafficpsyche.com
Enter your proxy URL:
Enter Shout message:I like your writting. keep it up

Add more message (Y/N):y
Enter Shout message [I like your writting. keep it up ]:you have a good content.
care to exchange links]:good morning. Here 8am GMT+4. What's the time over there
Add more message (Y/N):n

TIPS: In order for you to get more responsive reply from members and build better relationship with them, do not write a message directly asking for members to visit pages, links or do something back in return as adding you as their friend, joining your neighborhood etc. Instead use it more towards praising and commenting their pages / sites, and shows that you have actually visited theirs. You need to use some psychology approach here. Remember you're building a community of your own, so do things that is seen as unique, and valuable. Try to give more rather than take more. ☺ This is how community works. "You do it and the rest will follow". Any attempt to promote your site / product / services must comes naturally.

7) Password – your BlogCatalog's password.

You can choose not to enter any value for the above questions, except the value for Process Delay, Username, Directory and Password which are important to get Traffic Psyche to start.

Once everything is done, choose Run Service by pressing 'R' to start the system. Now you can sit down, relax and everything will be done smoothly.. ☺

There you are guys. A bit complex at first, but I'm sure you'll get used to it and gain much benefit afterwards. I hope you'll love this software and FYI by this time I should be finishing with my next released. So stay tuned and enjoy your Traffic Psyche..

Cheers..
